

Product Information

Area : South Australia / McLaren Vale

Wine style : White

Varietal : Chardonnay

Style : Dry

Description

Tasting Note Medium straw with attractive green tints. Full ripe peach nose complexed with an elegant nutty vanilla influence from French oak. This is a restrained, medium bodied style with a persistent flavour finishing with a soft acidity. Flavours are in the spectrum of nectarine and peach.

Food Matching An excellent companion for poultry, seafood or pasta.

Background Information

' Almond Grove ' has obtained its name from the almonds which were widely grown in McLaren Vale on land which now bears our vineyards. Richard Hamilton is noted as the first to have planted Chardonnay in McLaren Vale (in 1972)

Terroir/Vinification

Cellaring Potential

The wine should drink well over the next 3-5 years. Expect the colour to show more golden tints in four or so years and the nose and palate to develop attractive French toast flavours.
